

As a frequent flyer, I STRONGLY OPPOSE cellular telephone use aboard airborne aircraft.

It's a bad, bad idea that'll do nothing but increase tensions in an already often tension filled atmosphere. The use of NON-VERBAL wireless communication devices i.e., internet access, Blackberries, etc. would be an acceptable alternative. Let the airlines find another way to make a buck---a bunch of blowhards yakking on cellphones will end-up costing them more than they'd ever make off it.